Join us for this RPI event and discover how you can use Lifelines data and biosamples in your research!

Lifelines is a cohort and biobank (link) contributing to healthy ageing and research by collecting data and biosamples over time from 167 000 people that live in the Northern part of the Netherlands.

This event will be opened by Dr. Peggy Manders (manager Radboud Biobank) about the value of biobank and cohort data collections. Followed by a Lifelines introduction by Ilse Broeders (Lifelines projectmanager) on study design and research opportunities. Thereafter, there are two parallel interactive breakout sessions on: 1) how to use real world data by Laura Nauta (Lifelines datamanager) and 2) biomarker research by Maaïke van Bergen (Postdoc Radboudumc).

The event will be concluded with a free borrel!
